Capturing the elusive element of time by controlling experiences and selecting those events which develop us into worthy people is everyone's chief concern. We seek to relate ourselves to the universe in such a way that we realize our greatest creative powers. A well rounded calendar of events is the principal interest of the administration and student planning groups. Seeking to give a solid foundation in education in preparation for a chosen field of endeavor to each student, enriched by sufficient recreation and creating a healthy environment becomes an ideal of supervisors. The necessity of meeting each moment with the ability to understand the situation and adapt ones self to it assures successful future living for the modern youth. Recognizing mistakes and overcoming the weakness which caused them accepted with tolerance develops a democratic atmosphere of which the school is proud.
Each hour spent in this environment helps build a philosophy of life which becomes deeply embedded in the hearts of the students which is not easily erased.

School life is not composed solely of studying neither is it all play. The following pages will recall a mixture of happiness and disappointment associated with the round-the-clock experiences of the school year 1954-55. Some memories are nostalgic while others would not gladly be repeated. But when all of the incidents are tabulated, we recall events we would like to relive.

A message from the Principal

Dear Students of Fair Park:

High school has provided many activities for all of you. I hope that you have learned that it is only by sharing opportunities and responsibilities that a student body is welded into one. It is evident that as a group works unselfishly to achieve one purpose, the individual, himself, is strengthened in character.

At the close of this school year I wish especially that each graduate may have success and happiness in his chosen vocation. May the experiences in both classroom and extra-curricula activities be some of your fondest memories.

Skill in using ones hands must be developed. Practical courses in woodworking, mechanical drawing and art are available as selective subjects in industrial arts.

Since music is a natural means of self expression each student is encouraged to experience some form of music while in high school. More than half the student body take advantage of vocal or instrumental music lessons. Achieving music ability, poise, and grace developed by public appearances each individual's gain from such experience is immeasurable.

JUNIOR SENIOR PROM

March 3rd culminated the plans and work of Roby Kerr, chairman for the annual Junior-Senior Prom. Assisting Roby, Vicky Worm planned the blue and silver decorations. Perry Burress was responsible for the dance and music aided by Jeaneane Franks who planned the entertainment. Various parents of junior and senior students helped Margaret Hanson plan the banquet. Mr. Roy Wilson was asked to sponsor the dance while other members of the faculty were asked to be guests of the Junior and Senior classes.

SEQUOYAH BANQUET

It is time to celebrate when the year's work is done. The yearbook staffs held their festivities the night of March 8th just after the last campaign for finances was completed and a few days before all the transcripts and pictures for the book went to the printers. Responsible for the merry-making, the Business and Ad Staffs entertained the Editorial Staff and the Circulation Staff with a barbecue supper and informal dance. Carrying out the western atmosphere Margie Carney and her committee decorated the table with miniature cowboys and Indians. MCing the intermission show Don Piercy presented some of the school's best stage talent.

FAIR PARK NIPS BOLTON, 26-24

(September 17)

A quintet of hard-running backs and a strong, stalwart line enabled the Tribe to outdistance Bolton in every department of statistics. On a quarterback sneak, Orton scored the final pointers in the latter half after short advances by Reynolds, Foggin and Lee. Outstanding defensive playing was credited to Lewis and Horne. Extra points converted by Feazel decided the game.

In the first period the Indians attempted to score on a 32-yard field-goal by Johnny Feazel, but the kick fell short. The Jackets took over and started a drive which was halted by a fumble recovered by Don Parker.

Byrd scored its first touchdown in the latter part of the second quarter. With seconds left in the half Richard Lee received the Jacket kickoff and sprinted 43 yards only to be overtaken from behind.

The Orbis Romanis or the Roman World is a group that endeavors to learn more about and to create a greater interest in an ancient, but not forgotten place of civilization known as Roman life. The programs, which are educational as well as enjoyable, are about Roman homelife, welfare, culture and religion.

There are two consuls, following the plan of the Romans long ago. Creative talents come to light in the form of dramatizations and presentations of Roman history and legends.

This past year, representatives of the Orbis Romanis met with other representatives from other schools of the Ark-La-Tex area and exchanged ideas on various types of studies carried on in their respective schools depicting the way Latin thrives in our every day lives.

This year Orbis Romanis planned to make and exhibit examples of Roman dress. Forty-five members combine to make this club one of the most active at Fair Park.

French students form a new club whose name when translated becomes "The Friendship Club" or "The Circle of Friends." Devoting their time to studying French customs and costumes throughout the centuries, many interesting programs have resulted.

To be of benefit to the school community the club published basketball game schedules. Their social service project was supplying a needy family with a food basket during the holidays.

Cooperation is essential in any club, and in our club it must and does prevail above everything else. In a club of this sort, promptness, orderliness, reliability, and a sense of personal responsibility are also qualities which a good audio-visual member must possess.

Everyone has a job to do, and we all strive to the very best of our ability to perform our work successfully. The boys project the films which includes, besides a knowledge of projection, the moving and setting up of equipment and reporting on the condition of both equipment and films. The girls serve as secretaries and their work consists of processing films as they come in, assisting in mailing them, filing of cards, and checking attendance records.

Our club actually works for the benefit of the entire student body for, without the audio-visual program, the films which help us so much in all our studies would not be available for use.

Many of our members are now working for the privilege of membership in the School-Projectionist Club of America.

The success of our club is due largely to the guidance and assistance of our sponsor, Miss Ruby Moore.

Seriously planning one's future is a necessity. Planned programs helped each person to realize her own abilities through a series of tests and discussions. Contemplating the preparation necessary toward success in a vocation and acceptance by others were found to be important.

Christian living and tolerance of others as standards set forth by the Y. W. C. A. helps every girl achieve these goals.

The members, in exchanging letters with people of foreign countries, learn customs and ways of the life of their foreign friends. It is very interesting to note the speech peculiarities and their way of expressing themselves. School, hobbies, and life are the topics most frequently included in these letters. This club has done much to inspire its members to bring about friendship between different countries.

PELICAN BOYS' STATE

For three years, one suddenly discovers, he has been under observation of his teachers. The principal's summons comes one warm spring afternoon during one's Junior year. He announces that a large group of teachers, all that have taught you since entering high school, have agreed you are a worthwhile citizen and have elected you as a delegate to Boys' State.

This is the beginning of a group of events which leaves every Boys' Stater feeling privileged and proud. The chief instructional period takes place on the Louisiana State University campus at Baton Rouge. As guests of the American Legion the trip is made possible for the group.

Few are the honors that all the students are eligible for. Recognition for initiative, leadership qualities, and trustworthiness has come your way. A boy who wears a Boys' State T-shirt his Senior year is a proud person with an ideal to live up to.

PELICAN GIRLS' STATE

Mid-August finds a large group of girls assembled on the Louisiana State University campus. The number from each high school in the state depends upon the enrollment. Eligibility depends on scholarship, leadership ability, and various qualities of personality. Selection is made by former classroom teachers.

The citizenship training is both theoretical and actual. Elections as a result of political campaigns are experienced. Visits to the state capitol as guests to observe the Legislature in progress lends authenticity.

Delegates to Girls' State can tread the campus and halls with greater assurance during their senior year at high school. The honor of having been elected inspires each girl to take part in school and community work with greater zeal.

''A'' CHOIR

Public appearances have lent prestige to "A" Choir activities. Musical programs given at Civic Club meetings, hospitals, and churches proved their versatile abilities. Other programs supported with their songs were the Sunrise Easter programs sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. in the Amphitheater on Centenary College campus and Youth Week programs.

Members of the "A" Choir gain their places by audition and hard work.

Yuletide would lack flavor without the Christmas Story. The "B" Choir's evening performance using a vocal background of anthems and a costumed pageant presented this much loved tale of the advent of the Christ Child.

Carroll Armour read the Biblical verses as the groups took places. Two children made their debut with the choir as "The Two Small Angels." They were Carren LaField and Linda Gates. Mary was played by Tallulah Carpenter, Joseph was played by Sammy Bolen, while the Large Angel was Frances Raley. The Angel Chorus was supported by the "B" Choir in the auditorium below the stage.

All aboard for All-State Music Clinic!

Orchestra boys pack instruments for trip.

ALL-STATE MUSIC REPRESENTATIVES

Coinciding meetings of the Louisiana Education Association and the All-State Music Clinic in Monroe made the last week in November an unusual one.

Northeast State College was host to the instrumental group for the entire time and the vocal group for the last day. Louisiana Polytechnic Institute was the scene of the four-day vocal clinic.

Representative members of the All-State Music Clinic furnished the musical numbers for the programs for the L. E. A. Dr. Everett Timm conducted the instrumental groups and George Howerton directed the vocal groups. Fifty-three students from F. P. H. S. were selected to attend the annual meeting. Of this number 38 were instrumentalists and 15 were vocalists.

Mrs. Gibbons lends a bit to harmonizing.

OFFICERS AND SPONSORS CLUB

To fill the demands by the officer and sponsor for entertainment is not the only purpose of the club. Besides supplying a social life for the officers and sponsors, it gives them an opportunity to develop new friendships, and to develop their ability to get along with their fellow cadets.

Co-operating with the R. O. T. C. Instructors and Parents Club, the Officers and Sponsors Club members assist in obtaining congenial relationships between cadets and officers.

R. O. T. C. cadets may attend a summer camp if they choose. Camp Dallas is the meeting place for all of the R. O. T. C. units who send representatives. Cadets from Louisiana, Texas, and Oklahoma join in leadership training classes and other developmental experiences offered which help cadets improve in military classes in school. Marksmanship abilities are accentuated.

The sixteen cadets from Shreveport made a good showing for their home town competing with the four hundred and fifty-six boys who attended Camp Dallas.

The Camp Regimental Commander was Cadet Val Pugh Hall and the Battalion Commander was Cadet Luke Fisher, both postgraduates from Dallas high schools.

All cadets from Fair Park were ranked as Sergeants except Buddy McQuagge who was Captain on the Instructors Staff. Bobby Newson and Joe Middleton were active on the Drill Team.

Receiving merits in rifle marksmanship were Harold Owens, expert; Joe Middleton, sharpshooter; Bobby Hughes, Jim Le Vasseur and Bobby Newson, marksman. The best marksman at camp received a target rifle.

Other activities for the boys at camp included boxing, softball, and swimming.

SEQUOYAH EDITORIAL STAFF

Various members of the Editorial Staff may have different obligations in making the book, however the staff as a whole knows about everything going on around school. This staff is responsible for an accurate account of every person and their achievements for that school year. Photography and writing are the mediums used to preserve each school memory. When ideas are exchanged, individual abilities developed, work co-ordinated, supplemented by research and climaxed by work with professional publishers and engravers, each chapter in the history of the school is perfected.

The Business Staff of the Pow Wow has three responsibilities: selling advertisements, selling papers, and mailing copies to other schools with whom they exchange.

Business manager, assistant business managers, circulation manager, and exchange manager are the four main positions on the staff.

To achieve a position on the staff, a girl must sell advertisements and work for at least a year.

THE 1955 PAPOOSE STAFF

After making a periodical appearance Freshmen and Sophomores snap up The Papoose, a mimeographed newspaper. Freshman English Classes, supervised by Mrs. Nema Henry, publish this small paper. Members of these classes contribute articles, jokes, poetry, and the editorials. They are encouraged to adhere to journalistic styles of writing. Occasionally personal experiences are written up.

In attempting to develop individual abilities in writing, each young reporter receives constructive criticism and encouragement. Special assignments to cover events stimulates interest. Contributions are solicited from boys and girls in their same grades who are in other English classes.

Work on the Papoose is a stepping stone toward identifying with the other publication staffs to meet qualifications.

Joan Hilburn collaborates with three other class editors.

Kelly,

You are the best friend a girl could have, although we've had our quarrels. I think I can honestly say we have been the best of friends since we were old enough to talk. I hope our friendship can go on forever. Remember the good times we have had together? (I don't) Ha!

Of course I can't put down in words how much I like you, but I think you know.

I hope you have lots of luck with your boys this summer and stay hanging on to Bernard as long as you can.

All I ask is for you to please quit talking to J. R. S. as you mean got me in trouble.

As I said before, though, you are the best friend a girl could have.

Love ya lots,

Dear Kitty:
